PREMIER SCULLERS.

A Galaxy of Great Oarsmen at Saratoga Lake.

[Special to Boston Herald.]

SARATOGA SPRINGS, Aug. 28. The regatta on Saratoga lake, last week, was so successful that the gentlemen foremost in bringing it about have already determined to offer much larger prizes for an aquatic tournament on the same course next summer. The recent events were experimental; have demonstrated that boat racing on the merits of the participants may be had as well now as years ago, despite impressions to the contrary, and have also shown that under equally favorable conditions professionals are still far ahead of the best amateurs in the country. It is generally understood among boating men that Frank E. Holmes, the amateur champion sculler, has determined to withdraw from amateur competition this fall, and that he "rowed for a record" last Friday. Indeed, after he had finished his own race on that day, he remained in his boat, and, when the professionals were started, he met them a short distance up the course and gave battle to two of the best of them. The time in the amateur contest was much slower than was Lee's time in the professional race, notwithstanding the professionals had a breeze dead ahead on their return struggle from the upper stakes, Holmes having covered the distance in 21m. 16½s., and Lee in 20m. 43½s. For the first time this season of the country met here last week and several of them compared notes as to engagements for the future. James A. Ten Eyck of Peekskill, N. Y., offered to row George Daisel a race for $250 or $300 a side; John A. Kennedy accepted a proposition to row James A. Riley for $500 a side, the race to take place within three weeks from signing articles, and Kennedy's friends announced that he would make a match for $1,500 or $2,000 a side to row Charles E. Courtney of Union Springs any time before "snow flies" this year. As an earnest of their desire to make this match they deposited $1,000 with Charles Reed, of Saratoga. There were rumors of other matches, but nothing definite was done regarding them. The oarsmen had considerable comment to make on the attempts of Wallace Ross to induce Edward Hanlan to row him a race for the championship of the world, under the customary conditions, and after Hanlan had published his letter, announcing that he would row Ross only for $5,000 a side, and not till next year even at those figures, they expressed their opinions very freely. Charles E. Courtney said that Ross was rowing very fast, much faster than Hanlan had ever rowed; and that if he possessed the lasting qualities, he would defeat Hanlan if they ever met. He thought Hanlan was fully aware of Wallace's improvement, and did not care to make a match with him.

THE PRINCIPAL OARSMEN

HANLAN'S PROPOSITION

to row for $5000 a side Courtney considered in the light of an attempt to drive Ross out by the bluff. Hanlan owed Ross a race and ought to give it to him as soon as possible, as Ross had waited a long time to suit Hanlan's convenience. "Well, Hanlan says he is willing to give Ross a race, but will not do so until next year," was suggested. "But say," broke in George W. Lee, the winner of the Saratoga professional race, "if he didn't want to row Wallace this year, why did he challenge any five oarsmen in the country to a series of races 24 or 48 hours apart?" "That's so," said Courtney, "his proposition was to row any five men, and he did not make naming his own time a condition. The races were for this week or next week or any time this season." "Well, now," said Lee, "I don't say that he can't beat us all, and I don't say that he can, but he has no right to come out in a challenge of that kind unless he means business, and I don't think he would have made a series of five races if five of us had accepted the challenge." "The fact of the matter is," said Courtney, saide, "Ned likes to be called a champion, and his holding the title helps him in his hotel up on the Toronto Island, and he succeeds very well in advertising himself and his business in the newspapers. He has no shadow of right, though, to retain the championship to suit his own time and convenience when anybody challenges him to a race for it. A man doing as he is trying to do, might succeed in holding the championship as long as he lived, and never giving anybody else a chance to row for it." James A. Ten Eyck thought Ross had done all that a man could do to

and that the champion owes Ross a race this year for the amount of money usually staked in championship matches. George H. Hosmer was of opinion that Ross had offered fair terms to bring about a match with Hanlan, and that Ned could not drive him off from year to year and retain the championship all the time if Ross took a firm stand. John A. Kennedy said that Hanlan had no intention of giving Wallace a race. Hanlan knew that Wallace did not have $5,000, and, as the challenging party proposed rowing for his own money, it was plain to everybody who gave the subject a thought that Hanlan was attempting to stifle Ross' aspirations by making the match for an amount so large that the New Brunswick sculler cannot put up the money demanded. Kennedy was so firmly convinced that a race between Hanlan and Ross would not take place, that, after the Winnipeg failure, he closed his connection with Ross as coach and trainer, and since that time Ross and he had no interests in common other than any other two scullers ordinarily have. William Elliott, ex-champion of England, said that the conditions under which races for the championship of the world had been rowed in the old country were, that the stakes should be £200, or $1,000 a side, and that the race should be rowed within a reasonable time, say from one month to three months. Hanlan owed Ross a race under these conditions, and should have given him a match long ago. "Indeed, he

when they were both in England; and," said Elliott, smiling, "if they rowed a race there I would have known what each of them could do, and my last match with Hanlan would not have been made, as they would have had a hard and fast race and I would have had a tip which would be valuable. No man can hold the championship at his own pleasure," continued Elliott, "but he who holds it must defend the title against all comers within reasonable intervals of time." James H. Riley, the Saratoga sculler, did not think Hanlan meant to give Ross a race, and doubted that Hanlan would ever make a match with any first-class American sculler. In explanation of this statement Riley said he knew Hanlan had made arrangements to go to Australia this winter, and that he and Paul Boyton intended to travel through that country in company. Paul Boyton was in Saratoga two weeks ago, and said as much to Riley. So much having been settled, it was evident that Hanlan's proposition to row a race for not less than $5,000 a side was intended as a "bluff," and that, in reality, the Toronto man did not intend to row any American for the championship of the world. Looking very wise, and closing one eye in a knowing way, Riley said it was his belief that, as Hanlan had won the world's championship from an Australian, he preferred leaving it where he found it to giving any one in America a chance of holding the title. Riley thought it was too bad that Ross, having fulfilled all the requirements conditional on challenging for the championship, did not and claim the position among oarsmen which Hanlan has held, and still tries to hold without defending it as a champion should. Wallace Ross, on being spoken to regarding the challenge to Hanlan, and the answer thereto, said he was sick and tired of trying to get the champion to row, and was convinced that Hanlan would never give him a race. "I have done everything in my power to bring on a match," said Ross, "and Hanlan has avoided me, in this country and England, four or five different times. He knows that I haven't $5,000 to put up, and, even if I had, I would not put up so much money, because, where two men are pretty evenly matched, it is nonsense to stake so large a sum, when the chances of rough water, a bad position at starting, an accident to one's boat or sculls, or any of the many ills that a sculler in training is liable to, may decide the race, instead of merit in rowing under conditions equally favorable to both contestants." "I see," continued Ross, "that Hanlan is out again with the old offer to row me next year for $5,000, and no less a sum. What I want to say is this: The championship of the world was not made for Edward Hanlan. It existed before he was known, and good men have held it and defended it against any and all scullers who sought the title. Nobody ever owned the championship. It has simply been held in trust, and every one who has so held it has been obliged to show cause from time to time why he should not transfer its keeping to some one else. Hanlan doesn't any more than did the other men who held it and were willing to give it up when challenged for it, as I have challenged Hanlan, and did give up when fairly beaten in a match race. Mind you, I don't say I can beat Hanlan. I only think I can, and I want to try and beat him under the usual conditions governing boat racing for the championship of the world. I will put up my own money to what I call a reasonable figure, but I will not put it in unreliable hands again. The $500 I first deposited for the Winnepeg match was staked with Hanlan's personal friends in his own city. It was in cash, and the $500 I afterward deposited to make good my entire stake of $1000 was a check. I recovered the check, but the $500 was never returned to me, and I have just the same as been robbed of it. If Hanlan had made a deposit in St. John with friends of mine to bind a match with

TO OUR READERS.

As an active participation in the campaign hereafterward will require Mr. Boutelle to be absent from Bangor more or less continuously, he has temporarily assigned the management of the political columns of the paper to other hands. We are fortunate in securing the assistance of Mr. Joseph W. Bartlett, formerly editor of this paper and a journalist of wide experience, who has kindly consented to render us his valuable aid during the present canvass.

THE PROPRIETORS.

RECORDS TO BE ASHAMED OF.

Afraid of their records in Congress, Messrs. Ladd and Murch are looking in all directions for means to explain or escape them. Among other means they have adopted, the most significant is their request to Hon. Wm. M. Lowe, of Alabama, to give them a clear character in his case. Mr. Lowe, it will be recollected, was the Greenback candidate for Congress in the North Alabama district, and like the several other contestants from the South, he was elected and cheated out of his rights by a Bourbon Returning Board. Had Congress been Democratic he never would have been seated; his case probably would never have been reported upon by the Congressional Committee. As it was, the Democrats solidly filibustered against the consideration of his case and, after consideration, voted against seating him, while every Republican present voted to seat him.

This being the party attitude on the Lowe and other cases, now let us see as to Ladd and Murch. It having been reported in this State that they filibustered against taking up the calendar of election cases, which was true, those gentlemen have written to Mr. Lowe for denial. Mr. Lowe has been out in Colorado, we should state, for his health, and knows nothing of the merits of the Maine contest, and so he writes to say that "Dr. Ladd" did vote for him, and Mr. Murch "was absent but paired in his favor." But this does not tell the whole story. The calendar of election cases contained these:

Mackey (Republican) vs. Dibble (Democrat).

Bisbee (Republican) vs. Finley (Democrat).

Lowe (Greenbacker) vs. Wheeler (Democrat).

Now everybody knows that when these cases come up for "consideration," they are considered in their order as reported, which was as they stand above. Now, from the very first of the fight and for about ten days Ladd and Murch appear among the filibusters who tried to prevent the consideration of these cases. Bear in mind, nobody criticises them for their votes on the merits of the cases, for the merits were not involved: the filibustering was to prevent taking up the cases even for discussion, and had it prevailed, Mr. Lowe's case would have failed with the rest. This is where the real issue lies, and Ladd and Murch know that they did all they could, indirectly, to prevent the seating of a Greenbacker because the same principle was involved in the cases of two Republicans.

But let us go further than this. Ladd and Murch were willing to sacrifice a Greenback friend for the purpose of encouraging dishonest elections in behalf of their Southern Bourbon friends. Had they simply voted to make a quorum, without regard to the merits of the cases, their friend Mr. Lowe would have been seated days before he was. They were not asked to vote to seat Mr. Mackey for example; but their attitude is that of opposing the discussion of the Mackey case and that attitude they held for ten days, to Mr. Lowe's disadvantage, as well as that of Congress and the country. The Mackey case was conceded to be based upon a series of the most aggravated outrages upon the ballot found in any of the cases on the calendar. Judge Jones, of Texas, the leading Greenbacker in the House, who was formerly a Democrat, made a very able and earnest speech in favor of Mr. Mackey, and on the question of seating him every Greenbacker (we speak thus advisedly, because Ladd and Murch are not regarded in Washington as Greenbackers), and every renegade Democrat voted for him.

These leas Ladd and Murch stir up their records on these questions the pleasanter it will be for them. The people of Maine, whatever political name they may bear, very well understand that had the seats of these two recreant members been filled, as they should have been, by Messrs. Boutelle and Milliken, the contested election cases would have been settled honestly and equitably long before they were, and Mr. Lowe, the Greenbacker, would have had his seat more promptly with their help than with that of two professed "friends," who were willing to sacrifice him to please their Southern task-masters. This is an ugly true tale, which the voters of Maine will study and improve upon.

The Belfast Journal is still hoping for that challenge from Murch for a joint discussion. While we are about it, let us combine the talented Fusionists. Little Statesman Thing might challenge the combined monopolies, and our own inimitable Ladd might challenge the whole world. We object to any favoritism towards those intellectual giants. Give 'em all a chance.

NOT TO BE CAUGHT NAPPING.

There are evidences that Plaisted has got frightened at the effect of his threat to imitate the State Steal. The threat was thrown out to feel the public pulse, and to ascertain if voters who couldn't be coaxed into acquiescence in Plaistedism couldn't be frightened by the ghost of another violent disturbance of the peace such as Garcelonism wrought. It had the opposite effect, and even the dull intellect of Fusionism perceives that it incites hostility at once to all phases of election frauds and the perpetrators thereof. Plaisted is therefore now playing coyness and high virtue; he will follow up probably with another long-drawn whimpering grievance about Republican persecution. The people of Maine, however, are too used to his small methods of campaigning to be deceived by him. Whether he means to be understood as really backing down from his threat, or whether he takes the ground that he has been misrepresented, makes little difference. The public believe he is capable of doing anything to promote his own interest and to carry his own narrow points. They have ample reason for this belief. On a certain occasion, the following despatch was forwarded to Augusta:

BANGOR, Dec. 23. We, the undersigned citizens of Bangor, believe that the Governor and Council of this State, in the inspection of the returns and tabulation of the same, which have just been completed, have acted in compliance with the Constitution and the laws, and we will sustain them and the constituted authorities of the State, to any extent at all hazards.

Harris M. Plaisted signed this despatch. He was instrumental in sending it to Garcelon and his infamous Council, who were then about to perfect the conspiracy which came near revolutionizing this State. Harris M. Plaisted has not grown large nor wise since, and only the lack of opportunity or the want of courage will deter him from doing what he urged others to do. The safest reliance is upon his lack of courage. Bury Fusion under a tremendous majority and violators of the ballot will find their Gubernatorial chief a chief no longer. Therefore trust no Fusion promise, but work for Fusion defeat. A full vote will bring peace and good government.

SOMERSET WOOL.

[Somerset Reporter.]

The duty and freights on foreign wool amount to at least 15 cents per pound, and is to this extent a protection to the wool-growers of this country. We ask the farmers of Maine whether they desire this discrimination against foreign wool-growers removed and if they desire to be brought into direct competition with foreign producers and have their wool reduced 13 cents per pound, or whether they prefer to have the tariff and the price of wool remain as they are now? This is a direct question and a pertinent one.

The 500,000 pounds of wool raised in this county is enhanced in price $65,000, or rather is kept from declining to this amount by the Republican policy of a protective tariff. A very respectable sum saved annually to pockets of Somerset farmers on one item.

If our farmers desire this discrimination against foreign wool removed, the best way they can show it is to vote against the Republican nominees, which is equivalent to voting for Democracy and free trade. Defeat the Republican party in Congress and the fostering care that has been extended over the wool-growing interest and other interests and industries, will be removed and the farmers will be brought into direct competition with the farmers and laborers of foreign countries. Are our farmers prepared to contribute toward bringing about this state of things by voting the Fusion ticket one week from next Monday? We trust they will not be so blind to their own interests.

It will doubtless be urged by our Democratic friends that the removal of this duty on wool would bring about a corresponding reduction in woolens. Even were this the fact it would not compensate for the loss, as Somerset farmers sell very much more wool than they buy woolen cloth, but it by no means follows that removal of all duties on wool would, in the long run, effect a reduction in the price of cloth. The removal of the tariff on wool and woolens would cause this country to be flooded with the product from England and Germany, prices would go down with a rush, our farmers would be ruined, our manufactories driven into bankruptcy and out of the business, their doors closed their machinery stopped, after which these foreigners who pay their operatives 30 to 50 cents per day, would have everything their own way and could put their own prices upon the products of their mills. If any of our own mills could stand up under the pressure of free trade it would be by reducing the pay of operatives to the starvation prices of England and by paying one-half the price now paid for wool. Therefore we say that free trade would cause a dead loss of $65,000 to the wool growers of Somerset County.

SOMEBODY HUNT.

The trenchant intellectual and oratorical powers of ex-Secretary Blaine have rarely been better displayed than in the powerful speech of Monday at Portland, in which he addressed himself to Governor Plaisted's anti-Democratic and anti-Constitutional position on the functions of the Supreme Court and of the Executive Council. After the almost interminable literature of this issue, one might have been pardoned for thinking the subject or the people exhausted; but Mr. Blaine brings to its consideration fresh historic parallel and incisive speech, which not only illuminate a question on which it was supposed all the light had been turned but form an admirable contribution to our campaign literature.

Very striking is the contrast of "the contempt of court" exhibited by the Fusion leaders and the deference and obedience shown in a similar case by the late Senator Fessenden, even when the decision was against both his interest and his convictions.

No part of the ex-Premier's speech will be read with more interest than that part in which he shows the absurdity of Plaistedism essaying to occupy the antagonistic position of Garfield. No speech of the campaign will be read with better attention or better deserve the thoughtful perusal of every voter. No one can rise from reading this speech, without perceiving that Plaistedism has been unmasked, and that in its natural guise it very closely resembles demagoguery.—Lewiston Journal.

And now Weaver isn't altogether above suspicion; it will be recollected that his letter of friendship for Plaisted, but "regrets," &c., &c., was dated at the "Albemarle Hotel, N. Y." Now it is reported that he was actually on his way to Maine to keep an old promise to serve Brother Plaisted, when some wicked emissary met him and opened his eyes as to the real situation of the Maine canvass, and he decided to send his regrets instead of coming. This, too, we suppose may now be set down as "small loss." Small losses seem to be fashionable on the Fusion side.

GOVERNOR PLAISTED'S SLANDER OF THE REFORM SCHOOL.

[Hancock Journal.]

A cloud of witnesses has risen up to prove false the statements being made by Governor Plaisted, wherever he speaks, in relation to the Reform School. The Portland Press of yesterday published interviews with several most respectable individuals who are thoroughly acquainted with the management of the Reform School, and all but one, who declined to say anything about the matter, unequivocally denied the statements made by the Governor.

Mr. Donahue, one of the trustees of the school, said, "He had taken proper steps "for his vindication from the charges "brought against him by Gov. Plaisted, "and therefore he should have nothing to "say on the subject at the present time. "When the time came for him to speak he "should not be backward in giving bottom "facts."

Mr. H. A. Hart of Deering, who has officiated at the school as chaplain without pay, and knows all about it says:

"Gov. Plaisted is an old friend of mine "and I therefore am very sorry to see him "do an unjust and unwise thing. What "he said about the Reform School is not "true, is uncalled for and is unjust to the "present superintendent. I have seen more "of the boys the last year, probably, than "any one not connected with the school. "Several of them have visited me at my "home and I have talked with many of "them freely at the school. I know that "they are treated well, and I know they "regard the superintendent as their friend.

"I know too, that he feels a deep interest "in them and spares no pains to promote "their well-being. The school never was "in so good condition.

"Boys of course are punished for wrong-"doing and are under restraint. But "there is no cruelty practised, there is no "unnecessary severity. The general good "health of the boys and their whole appearance shows that there is no starving. "Gov. Plaisted has made a terrible blunder "in allowing his partisanship to urge him "into this assault upon the school."

Mr. W. E. Gould of the First National Bank, who was formerly officially connected with the school twelve years, but not for the past four years, spoke well of the present superintendent and wife and expressed his surprise that any charge had been made against their kind and patient treatment of the boys.

Mr. Albion Little of Portland, who was for many years one of the trustees, and until Gov. Plaisted refused to re-appoint him as his own successor, but twice nominated him as trustee to remove another Republican trustee, contradicted the Governor's statements. He could not believe them. He said:

"If Gov. Plaisted's statement is true "then there must be connivance between "all the officers. He could not believe "the Governor's statements. Reform "school boys' testimony is generally "worthless. If the boys are feeling pretty "well, and a stranger asks them if they "are well treated they will say yes. Al-"most immediately afterwards if asked if "they do not consider reform schools "prisons, which ought to be abolished, "they will answer yes. Mr. Farrington, "the superintendent of the school, has "always declared himself in sympathy "with the humane system of treatment. "He and his wife are both kind-hearted "Christian people, and Mr. Little knew "that Mrs. Farrington was really over-"working herself in her devotion to the "boys. Mr. Little knew they were both "conscientious. He had visited the school "this summer and the boys all looked well "and acted well. It would be useless to "tell him that boys looking and acting as "those boys did, were ill-treated. He "knew better. He was too familiar with "them."

Dr. C. E. Webster, the attending physician at the Reform School was next interviewed. He said: "The greatest attention and "care has always been shown invalid boys "by Mr. and Mrs. Farrington. The case "referred to by Gov. Plaisted is that of a "boy named Winn. This boy was attended "by Mr. Farrington's son Arthur, who "had been studying medicine at Cornell, "and was competent to take care of him. "The hospital door is always kept locked "because there are occasions when a pa-"tient might take the opportunity to escape.

"The sun streams into the room at times, "but is a good thing in a sanitary point of "view, and does not touch the bed on which "the patient lies."

Here is evidence that is unimpeachable, going to prove that Governor Plaisted's pitiful story about the treatment of the boys at the Reform School is a vile slander against the institution. Is a man that will do such a thing as this fit to be Governor of the State of Maine? Every voter should ask himself this question before he puts his ballot into the ballot-box one week from next Monday.

AND STILL THEY COME!

Yesterday the Frankfort correspondent of the WHIG reported a notable diversion from the Plaisted column, Hon. Adams Treat, a leading Democrat of this State having declared for the Republican ticket. Another accession is Mr. J. K. Merritt, Democratic Town Clerk of Jay, who has got enough of Fusion, and knows several of his neighbors similarly affected. Another is reported by our Calais correspondent, Mr. H. L. Watts, of Washington county, having decided to cast his lot with the Republicans. Mr. Watts is an appointee of Gov. Plaisted, and his loss is serious. These are important as gains and still more important as indications of Fusion confusion. The Republican church is filling up—but yet there's room!

Capt. Charles A. Boutelle opened the campaign in Ellsworth, Saturday night, in Hancock Hall. His speech was largely in answer to the speech recently delivered here by Governor Plaisted and was a concise and complete vindication of the Council in relation to their conflict with the Governor. Capt. Boutelle is a logical and convincing speaker and he held the closest attention of the audience to the close. As a Congressman, to which position Capt. Boutelle is certain to be elected, he will be found faithful to his constituents and active in the advancement of their interests.—Ellsworth American.

There is a suspicion abroad among the innocent Fusionists that they have been taken in by the so-called "independent Republican movement." The Fusion managers are said to have given $1,000 to help it along; they advertised it in all their papers; they applauded it in every way. Still it don't move worth a cent. But that isn't the worst of it. It turns out that the alleged new party is engineered by former Plaisted men, and that most of its votes will come from the Fusion ranks. This is sad, indeed. Here the benevolent and humane Fusionists have been feeding and caressing this infant progigy only to find that it is a serpent clinging to and destroying their very vitals. Base ingratitude like that is unpardonable.

STILL THEY COME.

A LIFE-LONG DEMOCRAT DECLARES FOR ROBIE.

John H. Merritt, for many years town clerk of Jay, and a life-long Democrat, writes the Press: "Robie is to be the next Governor. I shall vote for him. That will help a little, and I know quite a number just like myself, hard money Democrats who will vote for him."

I had been a Republican almost from the start of that party and until I saw that the Republican party had departed from the great principles upon which it was founded, the equal principle of Thomas Jefferson and Abraham Lincoln.—Plaisted's Portland speech.

This is the best illustration we ever saw of how a pigmy can magnify himself into a giant and his personal grudges into principles. The way the Republican party "departed from the great principle," etc., was to drop Plaisted as it would a centipede. We think other parties may have similar chances to "depart," for Plaisted is comparatively young and vigorous yet, and hasn't entirely boxed the political compass.

Plaisted's Portland grievance was the longest and woefullest lamentation yet.

One by one the Fusion falsehoods, which contain their best political thought, are destroyed by authentic denial, until one would suppose they would tire of the effort to keep them going. The latest unfortunate of this sort was an old one revived, to the effect that Judge Libbey had advised Garcelon to act as he did in the State steal. Judge Libbey's emphatic denial in yesterday's WHIG was a very severe set-back. But it is to be hoped the poor Fusionists will not be discouraged by so little a thing as the lie thrown in their faces in that very courteous manner.

That was another grand Republican fizzle at Maranocook on Wednesday. It is singular how all Republican meetings of from ten to twenty thousands, dwindle to as many hundreds under Fusion manipulation, and how Fusion meetings of hundreds grow to anywhere from five to ten thousand. Are our Fusion brothers whistling thus while passing their burial ground?

LIFE INSURANCE

with not reserves of Assessmary life insurance. Life insurance with reserves is practical life insurance. It is adapted to our busy and not too conscientious world of every-day life. It puts the heaven-like part of life burden of supporting the future widows and orphans upon the young and lusty and strong. There is a touch of chivalry in it, too! It is performance and not promise. It says not money, and does not only promise it. It creates a fund of solid wealth, from which to harvest golden grain, and not a fund of empty promises from which to reap only disappointment. It accepts at once the burden and starts on its mission. There may be no demand for it, but it makes its way, nevertheless, and scatters unsought blessings as it goes.—Weekly Underwriter.

A DISASTROUS FIRE.

Hotel Guests Escape by Jumping from the Windows.

Dastardly Work of Incendiaries.

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, Aug. 31. A disastrous fire, which occurred here this morning, was first discovered in the attic of the Brunswick Hotel at one o'clock. It was incendiary and was set in the basement and had been burning fifteen minutes when discovered and it burned very rapidly The guests when roused found it impossible to escape by the stairway and jumped from the second and third story windows A lady from Toronto was much injured by jumping Reports of two persons missing are not substantiated. Guests escaped in their night clothes, losing wardrobe, money and other personal effects At 1.30 o clock the frame fell The house was insured for $1,000 in the following companies Connecticut, of Hartford, North British and Hartford of Connecticut It was valued at $5,000, nothing of value was saved. Pleasant House adjoining soon caught. No ladder could be obtained to reach the top of the building and it was completely destroyed in half an hour after the flames communicated. Four hundred dollars' worth was saved in furniture. The house was insured at $8,000 insured in the Hartford and Fenix for $700. The guests escaped uninjured, saving most of their property The house was owned by Mrs. S D Moulton. Central Hall, W G. Smith proprietor was destroyed, valued at $20,000; insured in the Hartford and Home for $10,000 There is no fire department nearer than four miles but engines arrived in time to save the Central House. Intense excitement prevails. Men, women and children were standing about wrapped in sheets, presenting a most piteous appearance. Contributions were taken up this morning at the different hotels for the sufferers. Suspicions are entertained that the same person set the fire and the disastrous one of last fall

THE INDEPENDENT REPUBLICANS.

No Vinton in Theirs.

A Cold Day for the Would-be Governor.

Special to Whig and Courier.

LEWISTON, Aug. 31. A hot day to-day, but Mr Vinton needed a buffalo coat at Bath all the same. Uninvited he went there to push his little boom and got a chance to talk in the Independent County convention to the great annoyance of those in the movement On the train your correspondent met Converse Purrington, of Bowdoinham, candidate of the Independent Convention for Commissioner "I want to say," said Mr. P., "that not one of us in this movement in Sagadahoc County will vote for Vinton. The Republican State ticket suits and we shall do all we can for it We did not invite Mr Vinton, and had we been consulted he would not have been asked to speak" Vinton left on the next train.

A long series of resolutions were unanimously adopted denouncing the management of the Republican party in Sagadahoc county, favoring civil service reform, opposing political assessments, and favoring enforcement of the prohibitory law. The organization is to be known as the Independent Republican party of Sagadahoc county, and an Executive committee of two from each town was appointed

A Large Catch.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Aug. 31. The schooner H. B. Griffin, Captain Van Amburg, arrived home from the Grand Bank, Monday, bringing about 320,000 pounds of codfish, the largest fare yet, besides disposing of a portion of the catch in Nova Scotia. The total fare was about 400,000 pounds, the largest ever taken by a Gloucester vessel.

RECENT STORM IN TEXAS.

Sad Loss of Life and Property.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. A despatch from Dallas, Texas, says a detailed description of the loss of property and suffering in the country is useless to attempt. Concho and Ben Ficklin, the latter the county seat, were swept almost out of existence and the location of the ruins is scarcely distinguishable. San Angelo did not suffer so extensively, but nearly every house that was not washed away will have to be rebuilt. The only persons known to have been drowned at San Angelo were about a half dozen Mexicans and two negroes, whose names could not be learned. At the stage station, midway between San Angelo and Ben Ficklin, the following were drowned: Terrell Harris, Mrs. M. J. Metcalf and four daughters, Mrs. S C. Robinson, Mr. Blake, Mr. Geo. Robinson, S. Canselm Revin, Geo. Smith, Mrs. Kate Arden and two children, and two small sons of Sheriff Spear. At Ben Ficklin the water rose 12 feet in the court house, The county jail and Mr. Wilcox's residence are all that remain. Provisions were sent to the destitute inhabitants from San Angelo and from the Government officers at Fort Concho In the surrounding country the following were drowned A Mexican with wife and six children, Dr. Owens and son, Mrs. H. K Mathis and child, Charles Lacker, wife and child, Mr. and Mrs. A. Stonehouse and three children, also three children have been found, who are not recognized. In addition to the names given, fully a hundred Mexicans engaged in herding, whose names are undistainable, have perished. Twenty-three were drowned in two adjoining ranches. Searching parties are out and relief parties have been organized. The topographical aspect of the smitten country in Tom Green county and the sufferings of the destitute are sickening —most of them are isolated 7 miles from roads, and the government telegraph line has been down most of the time; communication is almost impossible. The extent of the sparsely settled country visited by the storm is almost equal in size to the State of New York, and no doubt similar calamities have occurred in various sections which will continue to be reported for weeks to come. The plains are covered with carcasses of thousands of head drowned stock. The debris of the destroyed ranches and settlements, and trees from two to four feet in diameter torn up by the roots, are witnessed on every side

THE TREASURY

Important Circular Regarding the Exchange of Bonds—The Secretary's Views Concerning Calls.

WASHINGTON, Aug 31. The Treasury Department has issued the following circular

In order to allow the preparation of the schedules and interest checks for the payment of the November 1 dividend on the United States registered bonds of the acts of July 14, 1870, and January 20, 1871, continued at 3½ per centum, which have not been exchanged into 4 per cent. bonds and the dividend which will be due at the same time on the 3 per cent bonds of the act of July 12, 1882, which are now being issued, the Secretary of the Treasury hereby gives notice that the exchange of 3½ per cent bonds into 3 per cent. bonds will be suspended from the 20th day of September, 1882, until the first day of November, 1882, at which time it will be resumed, and will continue until further notice, and Department circular No. 81, dated July 13, 1882, is modified accordingly. Transfers of the 3 per cent bonds will not be made until November 1, 1882

(Signed) CHARLES J. FOLGER,
Secretary.

The Secretary furnishes the following statement. It is suggested in financial circles that the method of the Treasury Department in making monthly calls of bonds for redemption is ill-advised, and that it would be better, as less disturbing to monetary affairs, to make the calls weekly The suggestion is not made with a full knowledge of the facts. Though the calls have been made monthly, the practical result has been that so far, from the bonds being presented for payment on the day or near the day named thereon, presentation of them has been distributed over weeks after that day, so that, in fact the payments have been made from week to week, or rather from day to day. Take the 112th call for $75,000 000 for example It was due 7th of June, 1882 on that day there was paid $6 330,500, on the 9th of June a little over $2,000 000 more had been paid, on the 17th of June a million and a quarter more, on the 26th of June the like increase, on the 6th of July a quarter of a million more, on August 1 a million more; on August 5 a million more, and now, on the 30th of August, there is nearly $2,000,000 yet unpaid

Suspicion of Foul Play

NEW HAVEN, Aug 31 This forenoon the body of an unknown man about twenty-five years old, was found floating in the New Haven harbor, off the light house. The opinion is that the man was the victim of foul play. About three weeks ago a desperate fight occurred at Light House Grove, and it is known that one man, who answers to the description of the body, was carried away in an insensible condition. This afternoon a warrant was issued for the arrest of Edward Sharnon, who is said to have been engaged in the fight.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 31 The policy of running non-union mills will be tried in four mills in the city next Monday. The Wilson, Walker & Company's men have notified the general officers that if they are not given permission to work at the old wages, they will go in regardless of the association.

THE EGYPTIAN QUESTION.

Arabi is Refused an Armistice of Eight Days.

LONDON, Aug. 31. The Daily News' Constantinople despatch says evidence abounds that the Turkish population is favorable to Arabi; the Djerdge states the British have lost 4000 in the fight at Ramleh; other reports are industriously circulated.

The Daily News' Constantinople despatch says the War Office has contracted with the Russian Egyptian Steamship Company for the transport of troops to Alexandria.

The Daily News' Ismailia despatch connects the arrival of Sultan Pasha and late Governor of Bagazig with a rumor that the rebels are desirous to negotiate; it says great importance is attached at Ismailia to the visit of the two. It should be remarked that as they are sent by the Khedive it seems impossible that they can promise anything in behalf of the followers of Arabi.

The Daily Chronicle's Port Said despatch says: Arabi has asked for an eight days' armistice. Wolseley refused, but offered an armistice for one day. Nothing, however, will be done for several days unless Arabi again forces our hands.

Suez Canal.

MADRID, Aug. 31. All the powers, including England, replied favorably to the proposition of Italy that Holland and Spain be admitted to take part in a collective protection of Suez Canal. Arabi's Position.

ISMAILIA, Aug. 31. This afternoon Gen. Wilkinson, in command of the Indian cavalry, reconducted a reconnoisance and got within sight of the enemy's lines. His pickets fell back and sketches were made of his position, which was not considered to be so strong as had been reported.

Trouble at Cairo.

LONDON, Aug 31. The Times' despatch from Alexandria says: News has been received from Cairo that at a meeting of the Notables, Aug. 29th, at which the Governor of Ismailia was present, speeches were made recognizing Arabi Pasha as sole ruler of Egypt.

The Prefect of the Police on hearing of this declared against Arabi Pasha and ordered the arrest of all persons present at the meeting. He is organizing a Turkish police for the protection of the Khedive's interests. The Governor has declared for Arabi Pasha and has influenced two tribes of Bedouins in his favor.

Although suffering a good deal, she is as comfortable as could be expected.

A RUMOR. A sensational rumor was current in this city yesterday that George Lee, one of the fellows recently arrested in Fredericton for a crime committed in that vicinity, has confessed that he committed the murder of Wm. Elliott which caused great excitement here some years ago, and which has ever since been a mystery. Lee and his uncle lived in Maine several years, and one of their last deeds was the attempted robbery of a house in Lagrange. At the time of the Elliot murder the Lees lived in Glenburn. If Lee was the murderer of Elliot on Valley Avenue, it is very probable that he perpetrated the Gowen murder which occurred in Oldtown a few months subsequently. It would be a source of great satisfaction to have these mysteries solved.

Tenney (whose house was destroyed at that date) has opened streets north and south, and east and west, across his valuable estate, which has been sold in lots to "actual settlers" who are preparing to live in their own houses House rent is a moth that eats continually and is never satisfied, and every young man permanently located, should secure a building lot and bid good bye to landlords. Green who, by opening the street which bears his name, has rendered accessible many desirable lots

Gen James A Hall was introduced and delivered an address of much ability and power, which held the closest attention of the audience and was greeted with frequent outbursts of applause

WHERE IS THEIR BOASTED CONFIDENCE?

Mr Bass Driven to the Wall

We are informed that a Boston gentleman met Mr J. P. Bass at Milford yesterday and after some conversation concerning politics in this State, he remarked "Bass, your are going to be beaten this fall" "Oh no" replied Mr. Bass, "you are mistaken about that" "Well," said the Boston gentleman, "I will bet you $1,000 that you are beaten." This was a tough one for Mr Bass, and after vainly trying to turn it off as a joke, he said something about never hearing the last of it if he won a bet of that kind. But the gentleman was not to be put aside in this manner, and cruelly pushed Mr. Bass to the wall with the remark, "Well, I will bet you $1,000 that you are beaten by 1000 majority, and place the money in this gentleman's hands," designating another gentleman present at the time. Now with all their boasted confidence one would naturally suppose that Mr. Bass would have been eager to seize this opportunity to demonstrate his courage, but the fact was that when he found himself confronted by one who was ready to make good his statement by depositing his money, Mr. Bass was forced to acknowledge what has been apparent to all for a long time, namely, that in common with the rest of his party he knows that the Fusion ship is already foundering and will sink beneath the waves of public indignation on the 11th of September.

While we do not hold to the idea that a man makes his belief in his cause appear any stronger by being willing to put up money on it, yet Mr. Bass by the repeated publications in his paper of the assertion that a "certain Republican grocer had been driven into his boots" by some one who proposed to bet on Fusion success, is evidently of the contrary opinion, and judging him from his own stand point he admits the hopelessness of his cause.

AMUSEMENTS

Charlotte Thompson.

The sale of seats for to-morrow evening's performance of the "New Jane Eyre" by the Charlotte Thompson Combination opened at the Opera House yesterday in a manner as to leave no doubt of an overflowing house to greet the favorite actress. As "Jane Eyre" we but echo the sentiment of the press everywhere when we assert that Miss Thompson stands unrivalled This is no common praise, and the best of it is it is deserved.

Spanish Students.

Of these dusky artists, the Philadelphia Times said

We have reserved a place for special mention of the Spanish Students, whose musical entertainment is so meritorious as to make it the great feature of the exhibition. These artists have become so well known through the furore created by their long engagement in New York, following an extended European tour that their appearance last evening was eagerly and curiously awaited. Curiously gave place to unqualified admiration when they touched the strings of the mandoline and guitar, and the weird Spanish music fell upon the ear. Late as it was, the audience was spellbound, and when the first number was concluded, another and another was demanded with enthusiasm. In responding to recalls, the Students played a potpourri of national airs, and finally delighted parquette and galleries with an apotheosis of "The Babies on Our Block." It is impossible to give any idea of the extended and eulogistic press notices the Spanish Students have everywhere received in this country. In the same enthusiastic story everywhere.

For the second concert at the Opera House on Sunday evening. The sale of seats open this morning.]

REPUBLICAN RALLY.

Gen. Hall at Brewer To-Night.

General James A. Hall, one of the most enthusiastic Republicans and most effective stump speakers in this State, will address the citizens of Brewer in the Town Hall, this (Friday) evening, at 7 30 o'clock. He is familiar with local as well as national issues, and will make them interesting for all. He should have a rousing reception.

DISTRACTED FUSIONISTS!

Repudiated by One of Plaisted's Appointees.

[From our Calais Correspondent.]

It affords amusement to the Republicans here to witness the efforts of the Fusionists to make capital out of the defection of Mr. E. Q Hill. As stated in the WHIG of the 29th, his influence does not extend beyond his own vote. But as this is the first convert they have made in Washington county this campaign, so far as heard from it is natural that they should endeavor to magnify his importance to offset their losses, not only here but in other towns. Take for instance the case of H L. Watts, Esq., appointed by Governor Plaisted and confirmed by the Council as County Commissioner, to fill a vacancy, and at the recent Fusion Conventions nominated for that office. Mr. Watts has now publicly announced that he will support the Republican ticket, and the Fusionists are nearly distracted in consequence. A meeting of the County Committee is to be called,, I learn, to fill his place on the ticket. In view of such concessions as these the loss of Mr. Hill is considered a light matter. Should the actual causes why Mr Hill left the Republican party be printed he would be left in a light which his newly found and over zealous friends will hardly fancy.

Another Blow at Fusion

An elderly gentleman in Eastern Oxford, a member of Oxford Bar, and oldtime life long Democrat, says he shall vote for Robie, the Republican Congressmen and the entire Republican ticket this fall. He does not care to have his name mentioned, nor any great stir made about the matter, still we are at liberty to state the fact. His reasons for so voting are that Plaisted has attempted to rebuke the Supreme Court, and to bring its opinions into contempt.

He says Maine has an honorable and learned Judiciary, every member of the Court is known to him personally, and he has the highest respect for them and for their legal opinions. When Gov. Plaisted undertakes to rebuke such a body as that he strikes not only at the Court but at every honorable man in the State. He does not care to see Plaisted re-elected, and supported by a Fusion administration because that would place four new Judges on the Bench and "rebuke" the Court very effectually.—Oxford Democrat.

Ross and Hanlan

Wallace Ross publishes the following letter in the Boston Herald

After making every possible effort on several different occasions to induce Edward Hanlan to row a race with me for the championship of the world, and having failed, through no fault of mine, to bring about such a race, I returned to St. John from Winnipeg, Man., last July, intending to make no further attempt in that direction until Mr. Hanlan announced himself in condition to row match races. Soon after my return to St John, Mr. Hanlan, much to my surprise, issued a public challenge offering to row any five men in the country a series of five match races for stated amounts each race As Mr. Hanlan owed a race to me first I accepted his challenge for myself, stipulating that I alone should row the five races he proposed. He rejected my acceptance and offer, and once more avoided a meeting with me Realizing that the only way open to the championship was to challenge the holder of this title to a race, and to draw up a challenge in such a form as to make its acceptance within a reasonable time a condition under which Mr. Hanlan should remain the champion sculler in the world (a proceeding recognized as proper by custom and precedent), I issued a challenge And now, the time within which my challenge should have been accepted, having expired, I claim the single scull championship of the world and am prepared to defend the title against Mr Edward Hanlan or any and all comers.

Most truly yours,
WALLACE ROSS.

Portland, Me, Aug. 26, 1882.

FROM MILO

Some Facts Concerning Mr F. G Angove.

MILO, Aug 31.

Editor Daily Whig and Courier

In your local of this date in regard to the "alleged highway robbery," which you term a "remarkable case," one might be led to doubt the story of the man who was waylaid in the highway, robbed and nearly killed We of Milo have no cause to doubt his story. He is a young man who has borne a good character and is steady and industrious so far as we know. He has been away West, as a laboring man, and on his return last spring went to Sebec, where he was brought up, and took pains to fix up the graves of his father and mother, erecting a suitable stone at the head of each with other improvements, and some time this summer came to Milo. We hope the proper authorities, be they police or sheriff, will try and find these highwaymen and bring them to justice, that honest men may walk the streets of our State with more safety. The injured young man arrived at Milo this morning and is as well as can be expected. He has been interviewed and tells a straight story so far as we can see.

[For the benefit of the friends of Mr. Angove and the public generally we will state that Marshal Reed and his police force are now investigating this matter, and will leave no stone unturned in their efforts to ferret out the guilty parties and will bring them to punishment if such a thing is possible.—ED. WHIG.]

FROM DANFORTH.

Man Run Over by the Cars—Pleasing Concert

DANFORTH, Aug. 31st.

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier

George Morse was run over by the cars here to-day. He was at work on Swett's gravel train, and while the train was in motion, he jumped off and was thrown under the train and eight cars ran over him. He was very badly bruised, but fortunately no bones broken. It cut a gash on the calf of his right leg about 15 inches in length. His wounds were dressed by Drs. Ker and Porter, of Danforth.

We had the pleasure of listening to a vocal and instrumental concert at Morse's Hall last evening by Misses Nellie Foss and Mabel Brown, of Jackson Brook. Miss Foss presided at the instrument, and rendered some fine selections. Miss Brown has a very fine voice, and sang some very choice selections.

"Actions Speak" gets slightly mixed in studying Fusion, as, for instance, "The Fusion party is one party. It is not two parties. If it is the Greenback party, where is the Democratic party? If it is the Democratic party, where is the Greenback party? It is the Democratic party. Everybody will say so, after election and there will be no difficulty then in finding the Greenback party."

DAMARISCOTTA NOTES.

A gentleman residing in Damariscotta, Mr. A. S. C. Jackson, through the Argus, invites Senator Frye to discuss civil service reform. Mr. Frye is already quite busy, on the stump, antagonizing the civil service practices of Gov. Plaisted. Here is a distinct and practical issue, and it is being quite well ventilated.—Bath Times.

Somerset County is conceded to the Fusion ticket.—Portland Advertiser.

This is another case of the desire getting the best of the fact. Who, we would ask, concedes Somerset County to the Fusion ticket? Name a Republican who does, if you can. No doubt the Advertiser and Plaisted think it will be a favorable to them, but election day will sadly disappoint them.—Somerset Reporter.

The Straight Greenback call for the Turner and Livermore Representative convention is signed by 31 voters. The Buckfield and Hebron call, signed by 11 voters. These names may reasonably be expected to represent five voters each which would give 210 Straight Greenback voters in these four towns, but if they represent no voters except themselves it will be a vote of 49 which will give above 2000 votes in the State.

The Washington County Republicans have made an excellent nomination for Senator in the person of Hon. S. B. Hume, of Eastport. Mr. Hume is a genial, straight-forward man of the people, who by his own industry and thrift has acquired a competence. He is universally respected, and many of the better class of Democrats will vote for him. A correspondent says that he has already seen ten Democrats who announce their intention of voting for Mr. Hume.—Portland Press.

Philadelphia Press There is much significance in the enthusiasm with which ex-Secretary Blaine was received in Portland, Maine, last evening, and the demonstration went far to justify his bold and earnest claim of the unification of this country The vigor of his attack upon Governor Plaisted, and the unstinted measure of reprobation which was cast upon what Mr. Blaine termed the Governor's rebellion against the Constitution, give promise of a stirring campaign up amongst the pines. Senator Frye may well be congratulated on the earnestness exhibited and the enthusiasm evoked by his champion.

The old Bourbon papers of this State, like the Argus and the News Age, have none but words of praise for Gen. Weaver. Two years ago at the Portland convention on the day they mixed in Hancock, the Argus in a column editorial attacked Gen. Weaver as a traitor and a wolf in sheeps clothing. What has changed, the Argus or Gen. Weaver. The Argus worships at the shrine of the Democratic party. When Democracy was African slavery, treason, free rum, the Argus was as true to the Democratic party as it is to-day. What makes the Democratic party immortal is because they are so many newspapers that will preach Democracy for the next hundred years—no matter what errors or what abuses may go under the name of Democracy.

Uncle Solon is twitting the Fusionists with unfair dealing, hear him: In the early days of Fusion in this State, when a Fusion ticket was nominated, made up in part of Greenbackers and Democrats, the Democrats always put the jackknife into the ticket, while the Greenbackers carried out the bargain in good faith as is shown by the following vote in Cumberland county in 1879. In 1879 Moses T. Dow was the candidate for Treasurer, and Caleb A Chaplin candidate for Register of Probate, William B. Skillin candidate for County

THE SEASON FOR OYSTERS.

DEALERS MAKING PREPARATIONS FOR THE OPENING DAY.

(New York Times.)

On Friday next the luscious oyster will assume its rightful place as the "leading American bivalve," and on that day will disappear the hundreds of notices "closed for the season," which have been polarized on as many oyster saloons since the 1st of May. Friday ushers in the first of the months with an "R" in its title, and by the unwritten law of the land it is only in such months that one may satisfy his American appetite and devour all the oysters he can get and pay for. All over the city active preparations are being made for the great opening day—literally the great "opening" day for the oyster. All the oyster saloons which have been closed during the summer are being put in proper shape for another season's business. Many of them have been enlarged or refurnished and nearly all of them have been put through with such a cleansing process that their old patrons will hardly recognize them. By no means, however, have all the oyster saloons been closed during the hot season. Only those in districts where their customers fly to the seaside or mountains when hot weather approaches find it more profitable to suspend operations than to keep open. Many proprietors transform their oyster saloons into ice-cream establishments from May to September, and many more stick to their raws, stews, and fries the year round. Odd as it may seem, it is a fact that in certain localities in this city oyster saloons do nearly, and sometimes quite as much business through the warm summer as they do during the cold winter. In all such cases, however, the saloon is situated in the midst of a crowded-house population, and generally in German quarters. There are several saloons on the East Side, principally between the Bowery and the East River, where customers are as plentiful in summer as in winter. The patrons of such saloons want oysters at all times, and have no respect for the notion that an "R" in the month has anything to do with an oyster in the mouth. Veteran oystermen say they are right in believing an oyster is as good in summer as in winter provided always that the bivalves are freshly gathered. But the trouble is, they say, that such oysters are not always to be had in warm weather.

While the retail oyster-dealers and eating-house-keepers are busily preparing for the coming of September, the wholesale dealers are even more busily employed. They are not only selling ready for the great local trade, which will begin with a rush within a week, but they are already engaged in the preliminary fall trade with the West, and thousands of oysters are now sent westward every day. Walter Silsbe, of the well-known firm of Silsbe & Still, who has been an oyster-dealer in the New York market many years, said to a Times reporter yesterday, that the Western trade is very large and is increasing from year to year. This branch of the oyster business begins between the middle and latter part of August, and by the latter part of September is in full blast. The trade is conducted almost wholly by local packing dealers known as "openers," the oysters all being taken from the shell before being sent away. The bivalves are carefully washed after being opened, and are then packed solidly in kegs and barrels for transportation to their destination. When the latter is reached they are taken from the barrels and kegs and opened by the local dealers before they are sold to the consumers. All this adds to the cost of the oysters, while it takes from their flavor, so that the Western consumer had to pay a good price for a comparatively inferior article. It is the best they can do, however, for if they will eat oysters—and they will—they must get them from whatever oysters opened there are sent all over the West and to the California coast. In the spring thousands of barrels of very small oysters are sent to San Francisco, as seed. They are planted immediately along the western coast, and, although so small that it takes from 2,000 to 3,000 to make a barrel they grow to an eatable size by fall, when they are dug and sent to market. Most of the seed is raised in Newark Bay.

Although some Western oysters are sold by New York dealers the year round, the bulk of the trade is in September. Early in October Baltimore dealers are ready for business, and they then absorb the Western trade. As they can send their goods West cheaper than New York dealers Although Baltimore leads the world in the "opening" branch of the oyster business, the fall trade in that line here is immense. During the busy season from about August 20 or 25 to Oct 10 or 15, some firms in this city open 100,000 oysters per day. One man can open 2 barrels of oysters a day, the average being about 3 500 for experienced openers. The latter receive $1 per 1 000 for their work; so they earn very fair wages. The opening business is confined principally to Baltimore and New York, although a little is done in New Haven, Conn.

The prospect of the oyster trade for the season just opening is excellent, dealers anticipating plenty of business. There will not, however, be so large a crop as last year. For some unexplained reason almost a large proportion of the Virginia seed-oysters died this year during transportation to the planting grounds. This will affect the supply to a certain extent, and it will also have some influence upon prices. The quality of this year's crop, Mr. Silsbe believes will be much better than that of a year ago, which will help to offset the diminished crop. Blue Points—the favorite brand—were of rather poor quality last season, but this year they promise to be better than ever. Shrewsburys, another favorite brand, were of such poor quality last year that the crop was a practical failure. Now, however, they promise to be as choice as two years ago, when they were of extra good quality. East Rivers, Coundo, and Virginia oysters, which rank in the estimation of dealers in the order named, are all said to be of extra quality this year, although it is too early to speak with certainty of the East Rivers. Small oysters are steadily growing in favor with the public. There is, of course, a large demand for big, fat oysters, which they make such a tempting appearance, but people who know what really good oysters are, call for small ones, especially when they are to be eaten raw or "on the half-shell."

The Southern oysters are inferior, in quality to the native or "hard" bivalves, but they are sold in enormous quantities in our market, and for summer hardly anything else can be found. Without them dealers could not begin to supply the demand. They are brought North in the spring and planted in beds, from which they are taken as needed during the summer. The supply thus obtained is generally well cleaned up by the 1st of November, when it is cold enough for the Southern bivalves to be brought direct to market. They are so brought in large quantities during the winter, and when spring comes the planting begins again. Such oysters are worth from $1 to $2 less per 1,000 than the natives.

As already stated, dealers expect to obtain better prices for oysters this year than they did last season, because of a diminished crop of the native bivalves. Blue Points, which are grown near Patchogue, Long Island, are sold by the barrel and basket. The season will open with choice Blue Points at from $5.50 to $6 per barrel, from $1.25 to $1.50 per basket, the latter holding about three pecks. A year ago the Legislature passed a law requiring dealers to sell their oysters by ounce or by sealed measure. The law, however, has never been strictly enforced, and the sales by basket continue. Shrewsburys, Sounds, Mill Ponds, East Rivers, and other oysters are sold by the 1,000. East Rivers do not come into market until about a month after the other kinds. They will probably be sold at first for from $3 per 1,000 for choice to $4.50 for lots of poor quality. Sounds, Shrewsburys, &c., will be started at from 4$ to $6 per 1,000, and Southern oysters are expected when they first arrive to bring from $3.50 to $7.00 per 1,000. In all cases these prices will be raised as the winter advances. Last year the opening prices were about $1 less than the figures given for the present season. At one time last winter choice East River oysters reached $10 a thousand, while $6 was obtained for them of poor quality. Wholesale dealers say that the advance of $1 a thousand will hardly be felt by the general public. The consumer who orders a stew in a restaurant will, if he takes the trouble to count, probably find eight oysters instead of ten, often instead of a dozen in his soup plate, and when the house-wife orders a quart of the bivalves she will probably receive plenty of liquor along with the oysters.

The business of exporting oysters from this country to Europe, which began with a shipment of 10 barrels about six years ago, has grown to large proportions, and is steadily increasing. The English epicures turned up their noses in disdain when first asked to eat American oysters, but they have since learned to appreciate the superior qualities of our native bivalves, and now when a Blue Point oyster is put within their reach they open their mouths and do not elevate them for more. The export trade in this city is confined to a few firms. Blue Points, East Rivers, and Sounds are almost the only kinds sent abroad, as their keeping qualities enable them to stand the long voyage better. These grown on a hard bottom—one free from mud—are generally chosen for export, as their shell is more round, giving them the shape preferred abroad. The improved quality of this season's crop is expected to help to largely increase the export trade. Only small oysters, carefully selected, are exported. They are packed in the shell packed in barrels. Most of them come from Oyster Bay and Blue Point, Long Island, and Amboy, N. J.

Until recently oyster-shells have been used only for making lime. A few years ago somebody discovered that the shells made a capital foundation for oyster-beds, and within a year or two many thousands of bushels have been used for this purpose. The oysterman selects a good spot for a bed and simply dumps the shells overboard. This is done in July and August, when the spawning season. The spawn attaches itself to the shell, and in two years the shell is covered with oysters ranging from the size of a silver quarter to that of a half dollar. Then the oysters are big enough to seed, and are planted as such. Sometimes 30 or 40 such oysters are found attached to a single shell. The shells are worth 3 cents per bushel when thrown overboard, and at the end of two years they are worth from 60 to 75 cents per bushel, making a good margin for profit. This method of raising seed-oysters is being rapidly extended, and a number of steamers have been built at New Haven, Conn., with special apparatus for transplanting the shells. The whole oyster business in this city is done in about 30 houses. The two centres of the trade are at the foot of West Fifth street, North River, and the foot of Broome street, East River. Hundreds of oyster boats and schooners are always to be found at these markets, and a visit to them is not the least interesting trip one can take in this city of oyster eaters.

A BRAVE LADY.

She Endures the Pain of a Severe Surgical Operation Without Taking Chloroform.

[From the Courier]

Mr Schoonmaker, of Creek Locks, Ulster Co., N Y., had the misfortune to entirely lose the sight of one of her eyes, through an accident, and endured painful inflammatory action thereof for two long years, the other eye nearly becoming sympathetically affected. Her general health seriously suffering, indeed she was a mere wreck, a walking skeleton. In this terrible strait she consulted Dr David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., who told her at once that the injured eye must be removed She quietly but firmly said: "All right, Doctor but don't give me chloroform. Let my husband sit by my side during the operation, and I will neither cry out or stir." The work was done, and the poor woman bore herself with heroic soldierly courage! This showed greater pluck than it takes to face a hundred guns To restore her general health and give vigor and strength to the system, Dr Kennedy's "Favorite Prescription" is a specific. It is the only remedy for those peculiar ailments of women No family should be without it. Your druggist has it. If not send to Dr David Kennedy, Rondout, New York.
